OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

Imports and Revenue.

The imports of general merchandise into the port of New York for the week ending September 1, were $5,777,425. The imports since January 1 are about $10,000,000 less than for the same time last year, but the imports of the week are about $1,500,000 greater than of the corresponding week last year. This is probably but the beginning of the increase in importations which will be made on the strength of the exaggerated made on the strength of the exaggerated point of the boundary at the south intersections from the plate, with the concurrence of the Governor of California, the establishment of the initial point of the boundary at the south intersections. made on the strength of the exaggerated estimates of the grain erons of the Northern States. This will show such an improvement in the Government revenue by the time Congress meets, that the Republicans will be deprived of the excuse of an empty treasury and accumulating debt, for advocating a higher tariff. It will be shown that the revenue is sufficient for an economical Administration, and to redeem the public debt. and a party which advocates an increase of the revenue will be charged with a desire to encourage extravagant expenditures.

It is not difficult to see that the extravagant estimates of the prosperity of the country, and its real increase of prosperity, will operate against the Republican protective project. Hitherto they have had the excuse of a deficient revenue for a demand for a high tariff, and could charge the opposition to it, with the accumulating public debt; but the receipts from customs, for the next six months, will cut off this argument and leave them with nothing but a high tariff for the rake of protection

We have no desire to balk them, in taking this position. Many Republicans exhibit an anxiety to get up a suit of national principles which shall relieve them from the charge of having no foundation for their organization but the slavery question-as if any party at this time had any other foundation but slavery, except the spoils of office. In this effort they seem to be driven naturally to the principle of protection-a lively prospect, certainly, to take up an exploded theory on which one great party has died out, and which has been condemned every time it has ever come before the people, and which will sink every party that ever hitches to it!

But will they have a national principle then? The country has gone through a sectional war on the protection question, and it came nearer causing a Southern secession than the slavery contest ever will. None of the parties occupy a tenable position on the question of revenue-the first and most important in any organized government. And whenever politicians have exhausted the glavery fanaticism, so that it will cease to furnish means to carry men into office, or, perhaps, when attention has been forced to it by a war, the unsoundness, injustice, and extravagance of the present system will be exposed, and the whole policy overthrown.

That a nation should, except during a temporary emergency, depend on a system of revenue, the mere collection of which costs not less than ten per cent. of the gross proceeds, the greater part of which is paid to men who do not collect the amount of their salaries, which would be cut off entirely the moment a war with any foreign power should break out, leaving the country without revenue at the very time when there is an extraordinary demand on its resources, and deprived of the sinews of war by the war itdeprived of the sinews of war by the war itself, or even by the threat of war, a system which almost exempts the great wealth and property of the country from the burdens of government—that a nation should depend on this as a permanent system of revenue, would be a poor show of the boasted capacity of the American people for self-government.

American people for self-government. American people for self-government.

Sound Conservatism. The Atlanta (Ga.) Confederacy, a Douglas paper, takes a sound conservative, constitutional, Union-saving view of the election of Lincoln. In answer to a similar question to that addressed to Douglas at Norfolk, the Confederacy says:

"We answer this interrogatory by simply stating that the South will never permit Abraham Lincoln to be inaugurated President of the United States. This is a settled fact. It is the determination of all parties of the South. And let the consequences be what they may—whether the Potomac is crimsoned in human gore, and Pennsylvania-avenue is paved ten fathoms in depth with mangled bodies, or whether the last vestige of liberty is awept from the face of the American Continent, the South, the loyal South—the constitutional South, will never submit to such humiliation and degradation as the inauguration of Abraham Lincoln."

"These be brave words." "Blood is an oath of mickle might," as was observed by "Ancient Pistol," that beau-ideal of a fire-eating editor, "crimsoning the Potomac with human gore" means some thing; and if "Pennsylvanis-avenue is to be paved ten fathoms in depth with mangled bodies," the thing had better stop. The present political emergency can not justify a course which will excite the South to such radical measures. Ten fathoms are sixty feet. This would be paving the avenue with mangled bodies considerably higher than the top of the White House.

Even if the proposed depth of this pavement is slightly exaggerated by the excess of the valor of the editor of the Atlanta Confederacy, or if his valor is mightler with the pen than with the sword, yet, after making a large allowance of depth for these contingencies, it will still be very terrible. Suppose that a margin of one half, or five fathoms, be made for the difference between the valor with the pen and with the sword, it would still leave five fathoms, or thirty feet, of mangled bodies, which would effectually barricade the entrance to the White House and the Capitol. Besides, these mangled bodies are to be all furnished for the slaughter by the Republicans, for the South propose to do the slaying and mangling, and not to furnish any of the paving material themselves. It seems to us that a party which will persist in electing a President whose at-tempted inauguration is to bring such dreadful consequences on the country, and of California, the establishment of the initial point of the boundary at the south intersection of the thirty-fifth parallel of latitude north with the Colorado River, and a reconnoissance of the line toward the north this winter. In the spring of 7861 the initial point at the north, in the Washoe region, will be established, and the line surveyed as far as practicable. With a view to economy, Secretary Thompson has limited the number of employes to be engaged here to those absolutely necessary for the scientific work and charge of the instruments on the way out, the remainder of the corps to be engaged in California. The Hideous Ass, Brignoli, Refuses to Sing at Montreal-Cause of Signor Stu-pidity's Unwillingness.

The Montreal correspondent of the New York Tribune, thus satirically explains the cause of the failure of Brignoli to sing at the great musical festival given last week at Montreal, in honor of the Prince of Wales.

a point of dignity kept that tenor of eminent bautear in restraint. It was a question of personal consequence between Prince Albert Edward, Duke of Rothsay and Lord of the Isles, and Prince Brignoli, Great Mogul of Irving Place, and fashionable dictator of Newport. Prince Brignoli had arrayed him-self for the concert without the slightest regard as to the consequences to the youthful fair of Moureal. His waist-coat was without a wrinkle on its polished surface, excepting in the regions which physiologists assign to the heart, where it slightly pro-

But as he paced the waiting-room pre-pared for him, caroling light snatches by way of keeping his larynx in, the word was passed that even before the matchiess tenor had once buist upon the scene, the Prince of Wales had withdrawn, and left a chilling blank in the otherwise warm and overflow-ing gallery. Prince Brignofi turned pale, but clutching at his composure, which only for an instant evaded him, he spoke thus:

thus:

"I have my beautiful carriage and my fine horses at Newport. I ride, therefore, in the morning. At noon I bathe and make cool in the sait sea. In afternoons I find my dolce far nicete; and in the evening I have my broad moon and my lovely ladies. I leave all to sing in Montreal. Well, the Prince goes. Then I go, too. I have severe illness. I can not sing.

And Prince Brignoli would not sing, and no persuasions could move him from his humor. The proud bird returned to his cage in St. Lawrence Hall, moulted, or, in other words, shed his plumage, and dreamed no doubt of his broad moon and lovely ladies at Newport. This morning, he turned his face watering-placeward, and with a new and touching sense of the justice of the proverb: "Put not your trust in princes."

EXTENT OF THE FRUIT CROPS OF THE CON-EXTENT OF THE FROIT CROPS OF THE CONMECTICUT VALLEY.—The apple and other fruit crops of the Connecticut Valley promise an abundant yield this season. Farmers who have been in town during the week seeking buyers for their crops have feit bad at the low prices offered for them, and not a few are holding on to their fruit for better prices. It is predicted that within less than a month the best apples of the valley will be sold for between twenty-five and thirty-five cents per bushel. On the route of the different railroads running from this city the Think of Mr. Lincoln burrowing down through twenty or thirty feet of mangled bodies to reach the chimney-pots of the White House.

Even if the proposed depth of this pavetowns in Berkshire County, old trees which have not borne for two years, are this season loaded with apples, and many hundred bushels will be manufactured into cider. The retail prices with the city dealers have changed but little thus far, but another week will bring them down to reasonable rates.

DEATH FROM THE BITE OF A RATTLESNARE—Whisky Employed in Vain.—A resident of Susquehanna Depot, Pennsylvania, named John England, died on Thursday from the bite of a rattlesnake. On Wednesday he had the snake in a barrel with one head out, for the purpose of exhibiting it. To give the curious a view of his prisoner, he "stirred him up" with a stick about a foot long, when the snake retaliated by biting him on the left hand. Dr. Manily was called, and prescribed whisky to be taken internally and the application of lobelia to the wound. In the course of an hour the bitten man drank eleven full tumblers of whisky. The first siz did not spear to produce any effect on him, but after the seventh he began to show signs of stupor—a stupor from which he never recovered. He was taken home, and died on Thursday.

PLEA OF "HOMICIDAL MONOMANIA" FOR A QUADRUPLE MULDRICAL—At Walworth, England, a man named Youngman, as we have stated, has been couvicted of the murder of his mother, his two brothers, and the girl to whom he was about to be married. His only object was to obtain £100 insurance upon the latter remonstrated with him and struck him, where now Williams got a knife from his son and killed Golding. Williams and his son were arrested.

Theodore Parker's Tomb at Florence. A correspondent writes from Florence.

Italy, in a late letter: The Swiss Protestant Cemetery, under the shade of cypreas trees and the gray old walls of Florence, is interesting to Americans as well as to pilgrims from other countries where the religion of Luther and other Reformers prevails. There the dust of a number of our countrymen, cut off while far away from friends and home, has found its last repose. The body of Theodors Parker lieg in that hallowed inclosure. He was the last one buried, and probably the most illustrious of all who rest there. I remember to have heard a foreigner—who knows our country well—say, when Theodore Parker died,—"Itseems to me, that in his death, America has lost her most brilliant intel-That there is truth in such an onin ion we are all inclined to acknowledge. A VETERAN CONQUEROR'S ESTIMATE OF GLORY AND LOVE OF HONOR,-Sir Charles Napier, so distinguished for his military services in India, on receiving dispatches from the English Government making him Governor of Scinde, with additional pay, and or dering a triumpha' column to be cast from the guns he had captured, wrote:

I wish the government would let me go back to my wife and girls; it would be to me more than pay, glory, and honor. This is glory, is it? Yes. Nine princes have surendered their swords to me on the field of battle, and their kingdoms have been con-quered by me and attached to my own country. Well, all the glory that can be desired is mine, and I care so little for it that the moment I can, all shall be resigned to live quietly with my wife and girls; no honor or riches repay me for absence from them. Otherwise, this sort of life is life to me, is oracewise, this sort of life is life to me, is agreeable, as it may enable me to do good to these poor people. Oh, if I can do any good to serve them where so much blood has been shed in accursed war, I shall be happy. May I never see another shot fired. Horrid,

If you come out West, don't bring three cent pieces. The people, newsboys, and apple-women among the rest, look upon them with the utmost contempt, and will not receive them at all. Coppers are extinct here. There is no less coin in use than a five-cent piece, for which the newsboy sells you the morning paper, and the huckster her handful of apples or oranges. Curiously enough, a huckster may sell you half a dozen peaches for five cents, but would not sell a single one for four cents. The terms "dime" and "half-dime," seldom heard with us North, are in universal use in these parts.

SUPPOSED INTENTIONS OF SPAIN ON ST. DOMINGO.—Commander Poor, of the sloop-of-war St. Louis, reports to the Navy De-partment from St. Domingo City, that on the morning before his arrival, the 20th of July, a Spanish screw frigate landed a number of emigrants with arms. It is suspected that the Spanish Government has ulterior views of recovering its authority over that section of the island. More emigrants are expected from Venezuela, ostensibly for agricultural purposes. ricultural purposes.

NEWPORT NEWS.

"BOB ACRES" DISCOVERED IN REAL LIFE—Beneficial Results from Currying as Unloaded Revolver.—Night before last a timid Kentuckian—who, by-the-way, is not more than five feet high—residing two or three miles out of town, found himself in our city about nine o'clock, with $500 in his pocket-book. Our hero, naturally weak and of a nervous temperament, keenly felt his dan-gerous situation, and visions of knock-downs, robberies, assassinations, and all manner of evil doings, crowded thick and fast upon his active brain. Go home he must, for early in the morning he left a loving and affectionate wife and several interesting children, to whom he promised to return at an early hour, but owing to business, he had been delayed later than he expected. At length giving up all hopes of finding a wagon traveling his way, and suspicious of every pedestrian wearing whiskers, he started for his residence. ries, assassinations, and all manner c residence. He reached the suburbs of the city, and to him desolation appeared spread over the whole face of the country. He became very nervous; his small stock of courage failed nervous; his small stock of courage failed him, and seeing some distance ahead a form not unlike the Scriptural Goliah, he quickly retraced his steps. Arriving at the place from which he started, he met an acquaintance, who was cognizant of our hero's peculiarities, and asked him if he could not loan him a revolver. His friend smilingly answered in the affirmative, and the two proceeded to the residence of the friend, where our latter-day "Bob Acres" obtained a handsome six-shooter. Once more he bade good-bye to our city, and with pocket-book good-bye to our city, and with pocket-book in one hand and the revolver in the other, he trudged along right merrily—

"Whistling to keep his courage up."

He kept a coustant watch in front, behind, and on both sides, and pointed his murder-ous weapon at different objects on the side of the road; but as they made no hostile demonstration, and proved to be only cows and stumps of trees, he congratulated himself upon their cowardice, and kept on the uneven tenor of his way. Finally, he reached home, and soon explained the cause of his detention. Upon getting up in the morning he took up the borrowed revolver, and found, to his astonishment, that it was unloaded. The state of his feelings at that time can better be imagined than described, but "Whistling to keep his courage up." can better be imagined than described, but he trembled even then at his narrow escape, and now avers that he will never again be found away from the bosom of his family af-ter nightfall.

An Escaped New York Convict Assessed. Several weeks ago, while transferring a number of convicts to one of the New York penitentiaries, one of the number named Woods, gave the officer in charge the slip, at Bochester, and up to a few days ago had not been heard of. It appears he came out West and enlisted at the Garrison in our city. One of the soldiers knew him and tele-graphed to New York. An officer immedistely sent out, and yesterday, in company with Sheriff Summers, visited the Garrison and made the arrest. The case came before Judge Boyd, who placed Woods in jail until a requisition from the Governor of New York can be obtained. NARROW ESCAPE FROM A FIRE.—An nlarm of fire in our city, night before last, was oc-casioned by the accidental burning of a mos-queto-bar and bedding in the house of Jacob Best, corner Columbia and Belleview. The flames were extinguished without doing material damage. The Liquos-Sellers.—This class of citizens held a meeting night before last and determined to petition Council for the privilege of keeping their back doors open on Sunday to accommodate their patrons. The petition was before Council last night, and referred to the Committees on License and Law.

EXTRAORDINARY INCREASE IN VALUE OF COAL LANDS .- The Philadelphia Ledger, peaking of a visit to the Lehigh Valley, of Pennsylvania, says: The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Com pany owns a navigation some eighty-five miles in length, extending from Easton, on the Delaware River, to White Haven, be-sides some 80,000 acres, more or less, of land, about 6,000 acres of which are tested and ap-proved coal lands! As an evidence of the little value set on the coal lands of this re-gion, even within the last forty-three years, we may mention that the premises of the old "Lehigh Coal-mine Company" were, in 1817, leased for twenty years to Mesars. White, Hazard and others, at the small consideration of one ear of corn per year. The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, sev-eral years ago, acquired full title to the whole premises. This property, at least that portion of it considered good coal land, is now worth $500 an acre.

QUEER TRADE IN NAPLES .- At Naples, profitable commerce is carried on by the azzaroni, in the cast-away ends of old cigars. The moment one drops in the street or in the cafes, boys on the watch run for it, and when they have collected a quantity, they take them to the large dealers, who display them on the streets for sale to such as can afford and enjoy such luxuries.
